John (Jack) Adams
Commissioner

Dear Governor Fletcher,

The Department of Kentucky State Police is proud to present to you and the citizens of the Commonwealth, the Kentucky State Police 2006 Annual Report. This report reflects the diversity of accomplishments and the numerous tasks completed by the State Police during the calendar year 2006.

The Kentucky State Police has enhanced its ability to investigate crime, improve highway safety, prevent violence and respond to a wider range of calls for service. In addition, the department achieved re-accreditation with the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA). Through accreditation, the Kentucky State Police is recognized as a national leader in law enforcement by operating with the highest standards of ethics and excellence and utilizing training and technology to create a safer environment for all citizens of the Commonwealth.

The men and women of the Kentucky State Police make this agency the outstanding organization that it is today. I commend these dedicated law enforcement professionals in their efforts to keep Kentucky roadways and communities safe. I am hopeful that the information contained in this report will increase your awareness of the reality of crime, inform you of various initiatives of the Kentucky State Police and enlighten you about the need to continue developing effective strategies to combat criminal activity on an ongoing basis.

John (Jack) Adams
Commissioner

This publication is dedicated to

History and Purpose

In February of 1948, Kentucky became the 38th state to enact a State Police Act. This act was conceived by then-Governor Earl C. Clements, who saw the need for supplementing the sheriffs and local police departments with a statewide law enforcement agency, complete with full powers of arrest that went beyond the limits of any particular city or county. Consequently, on July 1st of that year, the governor got his wish and signed House Bill 291 into law thereby creating the Kentucky State Police.

The new Department of State Police inherited the men and equipment of its predecessor agency, the Kentucky Highway Patrol. Just 12 years earlier, that agency was formed with just 40 officers. By the time it evolved into a full service police agency, it had grown to 200 officers.

Guthrie Crowe, an attorney and former police judge from LaGrange, was appointed as the agency's first commissioner. Driving distinctive black Ford cruisers, Crowe and his troopers set out to establish the foundation of a force that would one day become the pride of every law-abiding Kentuckian. He was charged with developing an organization responsive to the current and emerging needs of the Executive Branch and the citizens of the Commonwealth. Those needs included the ability to investigate criminal organizations, development of enhanced crime information and the creation of a crime laboratory using scientific detection methods to aid in investigations. The fruit of Gov. Clements' and Com. Crowe's vision can be seen in the comprehensive law enforcement services provided by today's Kentucky State Police.

Over the years, KSP has continually progressed in terms of size and quality of service it provides to the citizens of Kentucky. In its early days, it monitored motor vehicle traffic, chased moonshiners, busted up stills, shut down gambling operations and broke up prostitution rings.

Today, KSP has 16 posts and 950 troopers throughout the state. Its six regional crime labs provide a variety of forensic support to local law enforcement agencies. Its duties have expanded to include the protection of state government executive and legislative branch leaders, government facilities security, drug interdiction, marijuana eradication, arson investigation, white collar and electronic crimes, child and sexual abuse cases, anti-terrorism and special response teams.

KSP is also involved in diverse efforts to educate the public about crime and to provide positive contacts between citizens and law enforcement officers. KSP troopers are involved in their local communities by meeting with civic and community organizations, providing lectures on crime prevention and drug education programs to schools and other youth organizations and assisting schools and businesses in developing security and emergency response and reporting plans.

As Kentucky's premier statewide law enforcement agency, the duties and responsibilities of the Kentucky State Police continually expand. As crime in Kentucky and American policing practices continue to change, KSP remains dedicated to maintaining all services they have traditionally provided to the Commonwealth as well as anticipating and responding to the changing nature of crime and security threats in the 21st century.

Core Values

The Kentucky State Police operates under a number of core values and principles. These are embodied in a number of codes and statements, including: the official Code of Ethics for all sworn officers; the Kentucky State Police Vision Statement; the Kentucky State Police Mission Statement and the Kentucky State Police Goals and Objectives Statement. Our dedication and strict adherence to these core values and principles ensures that the Kentucky State Police will remain a detail-oriented, efficient and professional law enforcement agency in service to the citizens of the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Kentucky State Police Code of Ethics

“As a law enforcement officer, my fundamental duty is to serve mankind; to safeguard lives and property; to protect the innocent against deception, the weak against oppression or intimidation, and the peaceful against violence or disorder; and to respect the constitutional rights of all persons to liberty, equality and justice.”

“I will keep my private life unsullied as an example to all; maintain courageous calm in the face of danger, scorn, or ridicule; develop self-restraint; and be constantly mindful of the welfare of others. Honest in thought and deed in both my personal and official life, I will be exemplary in obeying the laws of the land and the regulations of the agency. Whatever I see or hear of a confidential nature, or is confided to me in my official capacity, shall be kept secret unless revelation is necessary in the performance of duty.”

“I will never act officiously or permit personal feelings, prejudices, animosities, or friendships to influence my decisions. With no compromise for crime and with relentless prosecution of criminals, I will enforce the law courteously and appropriately without fear or favor, malice or ill will, never employing unnecessary force or violence and never accepting gratuities.”

“I recognize the badge of my office as a symbol of public faith and I accept it as public trust to be held as long as I am true to the ethics of police service. I will constantly strive to achieve these objectives and ideals, dedicating myself before God to my chosen profession, law enforcement.”

Kentucky State Police Vision Statement

The Kentucky State Police strives to maintain the highest standards of excellence utilizing training and technology to create a safe environment for citizens and continue as a national leader in law enforcement.

Kentucky State Police Mission Statement

The Kentucky State Police promotes public safety through service, integrity and professionalism utilizing partnerships to: prevent, reduce and deter crime and the fear of crime; enhance highway safety through education and enforcement and safeguard property and protect individual rights.

Kentucky State Police Goals and Objectives

Goal 1: Human Resource Development. Provide a highly motivated and competent workforce to deliver police services to citizens of the Commonwealth.

Goal 2: Highway Safety. Reduce the number of traffic crashes involving injury and death on Kentucky’s highways.

Goal 3: Reduce/Prevent Crime. Contribute to the creation of safe communities by initiating efforts to reduce and prevent crime in rural Kentucky.

Goal 4: Information Technology. Utilize technology to deliver real time information for the efficient delivery of police services.

2006 Quick Facts

About 4,200,000 persons were living in Kentucky in 2006.

239,854 complaints were received by the Kentucky State Police.

State police officers issued 343,837 citations.

KSP made 47,459 arrests.

6,501 arrests were made for drug-related offenses.

10,391 arrests were made for DUI.

Kentucky State Police opened 20,233 cases.

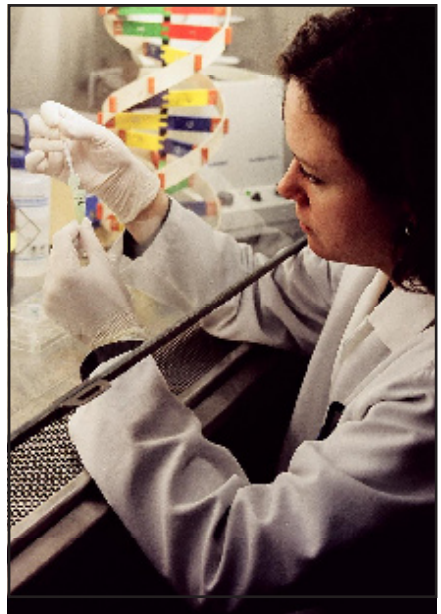

State police officers investigated 16,760 traffic collisions.

There were 958 state police officers and they worked 1,379,619 man-hours.

27 female officers were employed by the agency.

782 civilians worked for the agency.

KSP Forensic Laboratories accepted 46,072 case submissions; 11,153 (24.2 percent) of which were submitted by KSP officers.

Trooper of the Year

Detective Joie Peters was named KSP's 2005 Trooper of the Year on May 17, 2006. A 12-year veteran of the Kentucky State Police, Det. Peters is assigned to KSP Post 7 in Richmond, which covers Madison, Clark, Estill, Lee, Jackson, Owsley, Garrard, Lincoln, Boyle, Mercer and Jessamine counties. Some of his accomplishments during 2005 include:

- Solving a 2004 Estill Co. murder case that resulted in a 25-year sentence.
- Solving an Estill Co. murder that grew out of a missing persons case, resulting in four arrests.
- Solving an Owsley Co. murder case that had originally been classified as a suicide.
- Investigating a triple murder in Owsley Co. that resulted in three arrests and the discovery of a fourth murder associated with the case.
- Phone negotiation with a subject who had barricaded himself in a Jackson Co. residence and pointed handguns at deputy sheriffs. After three hours, Peters was able to convince the subject to surrender without incident.
- Assisting the U.S. Secret Service in a Jackson Co. case involving the production of $20,000 of counterfeit money in exchange for oxycontin.
- Solving two "cold" murder cases, one dating back 16 years and the other 18 years.

"Det. Peters' investigative skills and his determined drive to get to the truth has resulted in many arrests of suspects who thought they got away with murder," said Capt. Greg Gay, commander of KSP Post 7. "The only people who can speak for the victims in these violent crimes are investigators and Det. Peters' abilities speak loud and clear. His efforts are a testament to his professionalism, hard work and dedication to this agency and the citizens of the Commonwealth."

Det. Joie Peters

Civilian Employee of the Year

Dorothy Luckett was named 2006 KSP Civilian Employee of the Year on Oct. 4, 2006. A 29-year veteran of the agency, Luckett is program coordinator for the Uniform Crime Reporting Section within the Criminal Identification and Records Branch.

"Without question, Ms. Luckett is known throughout the state law enforcement community as the expert in crime reporting," said Capt. C.L. Cross, who nominated her for the award. "Her dedication and professionalism are borne out by numerous letters, emails and phone calls from around the state praising her responsiveness and efficiency. She was instrumental in production of this year's issue of the Crime in Kentucky statistical fact book, which is published by this branch and widely used throughout the state. Ms. Luckett has earned this recognition for her high level of integrity and professionalism."

Trooper Island, Inc.

Trooper Island Camp was developed by the Kentucky State Police in 1965 as part of a long range program of public service to the youth of Kentucky: a place where the tensions and turmoil of everyday lives can be forgotten and, for one week, young people can be given a touch of hope and desire of a better tomorrow.

Located in a secluded corner of Dale Hollow Lake near the Cumberland and Clinton County line, the camp is a non-profit organization that operates solely on private, tax-deductible contributions. Each year, approximately 700 boys and girls ages 10 to 12 attend the free camp to participate in athletics, water safety, canoeing, fishing, swimming, fishing, archery and crafts as well as character-building activities.

Campers are selected from each of the sixteen KSP post areas. Each trooper selects children who may not otherwise have the opportunity to attend a camp.

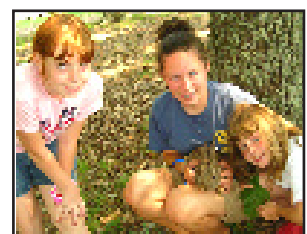

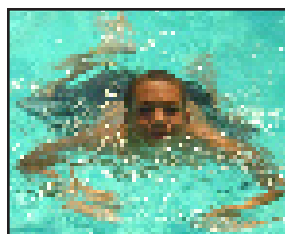

The program is dedicated to the development of self image: building the body through nutritious food and exercise, developing mental capabilities in the classroom and providing spiritual growth through non-denominational chapel services.

Attendance is free and there are no restrictions based on race, creed or color.

The camp is staffed by volunteers and receives support from many civic and business groups.

KENTUCKY STATE POLICE ORGANIZATIONAL CHART

(02/27/07)

Commissioner

The Kentucky State Police is organized pursuant to KRS 16.040 and KRS 16.060. These statutes give the Commissioner of the Kentucky State Police the responsibility for organizing the agency. Additionally, the Commissioner serves as the Chief Executive Officer of the agency and performs the functions and duties prescribed by law, administrative regulations, executive orders and directives from the Governor and/or Secretary of the Justice Cabinet.

The Kentucky State Police is organized into three separate divisions: the Administrative Division, the Operations Division and the Technical Services Division. All components and personnel of the Kentucky State Police are ultimately accountable to the Commissioner.

On July 13, 2006, Gov. Ernie Fletcher appointed Jack Adams to serve as Commissioner of the Kentucky State Police. Until his appointment, Adams was employed by the Kentucky Office of Insurance as an Insurance Fraud Investigation Supervisor and Acting Director of the Fraud Division. He served 22 years as a member of the Kentucky State Police, retiring as a major in 1993. In addition to his law enforcement service, Commissioner Adams is a Vietnam veteran of the United States Army. As Chief Executive for the department, Adams oversees over 40 separate operations within the 1,700-person agency. With an annual operating budget exceeding $140 million, the Kentucky State Police is the only full-service statewide law enforcement agency in Kentucky.
